

NEWSLETTER December 2018

Commodore's Corner

HO HO HO, Well has this year just flown by, and the festive season is well under way, I hope you are all being good girls and boys so the big fella will be very nice to you.

We had a great xmas dinner at the E10 Pukemanu Restaurant the other night with 50 odd club members and their partners enjoying a fantastic meal with great company.

Unfortunately the Ngawi / Puke challenge was a no go due to a southerly swell in the bay, which did die away later that day. This means we still hold the challenge cup for another year.

Sunday that weekend saw flat sea, so we all took to the water for a great club days fishing.

One of our Life members (Ian Warren) took Pity on the current Ngawi president and took him (Allie Holmes) out for a day's fishing just to show the Ngawi boys how its done. A good day was had with photos to prove it.

Sounds like all members out on Sundays club day had a great day out, I know we sure did on our boat, Just shows Ngawi you can catch fish on Sundays(haha).

We currently have 127 members with some new faces joining over the last couple of months, so if you're out at the beach over the festive season and meet up with any of these members please make yourself known to them, and make them feel welcome to this wonderful club which we have.

I hear today that warm water has arrived off Castle point and that broad bill have been seen out there so let's hope this all points to another good summer season.

Please note, from the 20th of December until 12th of January the club will not be processing any club memberships and tractor key applications due to the holidays.

I hope you have a great summer break and get out for lots of quality fishing time and we look forward to hearing all the fishing tales early next year.

Our next club weekend is Jan 12th & 13th so let's hope for flat seas.

Please remember that there will be a lot people out fishing over this summer period so please be patience at the boat launching areas and always remember to WEAR YOUR LIFE JACKET while launching and retrieving.

TIGH LINES, BE SAFE AND ENJOY COMPANY OF FAMILY AND FREINDS

On behalf of your committee we wish you and your family a

VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Until next year

A gentleman went to the local drug store and asked the pharmacist for the little blue "Viagra" pill.

The pharmacist asked, "How many?"

The man replied, "Just a few, maybe a half dozen. I cut each one into four pieces."

The pharmacist said, "That's too small a dose. That won't get you through intimacy."

The old fellow said, "Oh, I'm over eighty years old and I don't even think about intimacy much anymore.

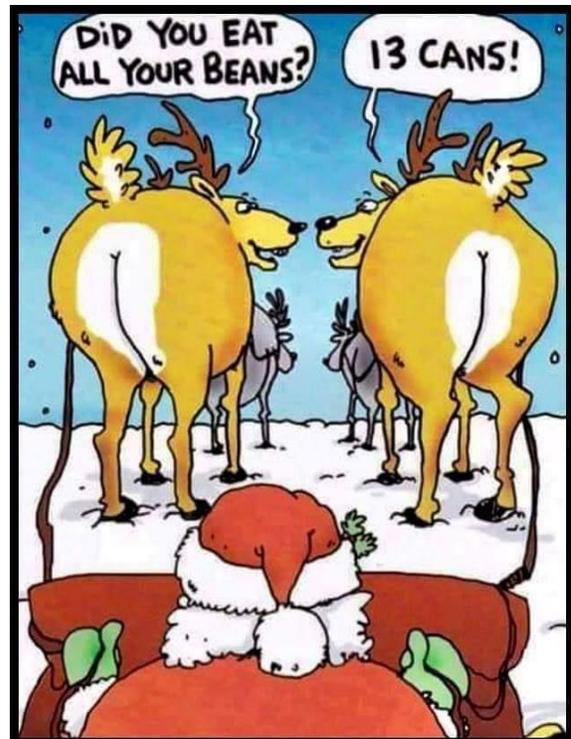

I just want it to stick out far enough so I don't piss on my new golf shoes

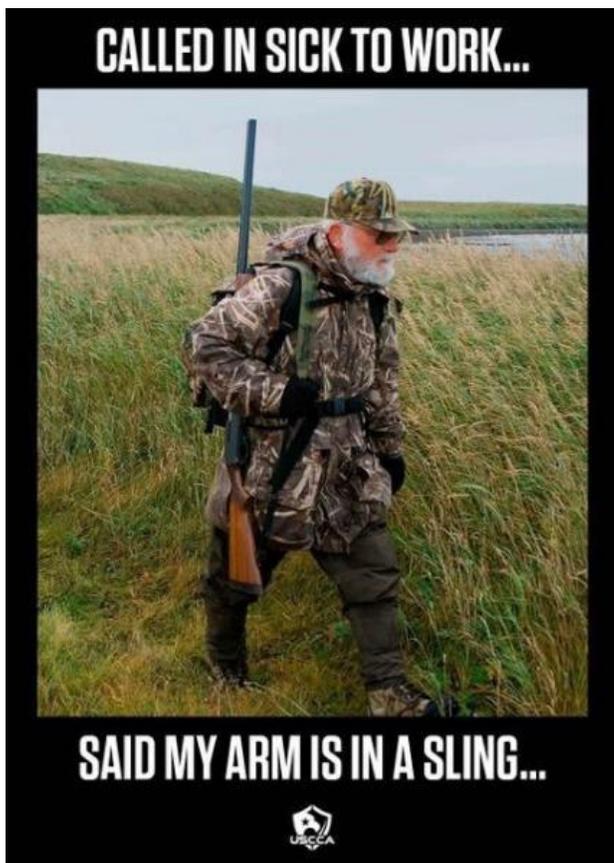

Too late for me!

I heard that this table at our Saturday prizegiving Of the Pukemanu Hunting & Fishing Comp. was very noisy & boisterous & got progressively worse as the evening progressed.....just have a close look, & you will see who the "trouble makers" were!.....just saying!

Don Hohepa on a mission to get some Venny!.....
The false beard didn't fool me bro!
Congratulations on the new grandchild Chris & Don.

Welcome to the club guys.

Wiremu's Roasted Kingfish with cucumber sauce

Serves 4

Ingredients

- 4 kingfish steaks
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- Salt and pepper
- ¼ cup chardonnay Cucumber sauce
- ¼ cup cucumber, grated and squeezed dry in a paper towel
- 1 tsp dried dill
- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- 1-2 tsp lemon zest
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- ½ cup sour cream
- Salt and pepper to taste.

Method

1. Preheat the oven to 220-degrees Celsius.
2. Make the cucumber sauce and set aside.
3. Pat the fish dry and season with salt and pepper.
4. Using an oven-proof frying pan, heat over medium heat. Rub the oil over the fish pieces and place into the hot pan. Shake the pan to stop the fish from sticking. Cook for approximately three minutes or until browned. Turn the fish over and cook another 2-3 minutes. Remove from the heat and add the chardonnay to the pan. Place the frying pan into the oven and continue to cook the fish until opaque and cooked through for approximately 3-4 minutes. The cooking time will vary depending on the thickness of your fish fillet.

5. Serve the chardonnay kingfish with a dollop of the cucumber sauce and home-made wedges.

I have cooked this dish on a barbeque & Wok for the sauce. It is a great meal with a few beers, wines & some mates.

Restore depleted fisheries to abundant levels by applying international best practice standards when setting stock management targets

The Situation

Depletion of our inshore fisheries affects both the marine environment and the people who rely on the sea for fishing. Restoring depleted fish stocks to international best practice standards would mean more fish in the water and a more resilient marine environment. For a fishery such as snapper this best practice standard is defined as at least 40% of the original stock size that existed in the absence of fishing. This is commonly referred to as B40. For slower growing species the standard is higher ie. B50 or B60.

We want our fisheries to be managed at B40 as a minimum, but Ministry officials and the commercial sector will not commit to restoring abundance to this level because of the catch reductions required. From their perspective, any cuts would cause short term economic pain that would hurt the profits of a few quota owners.

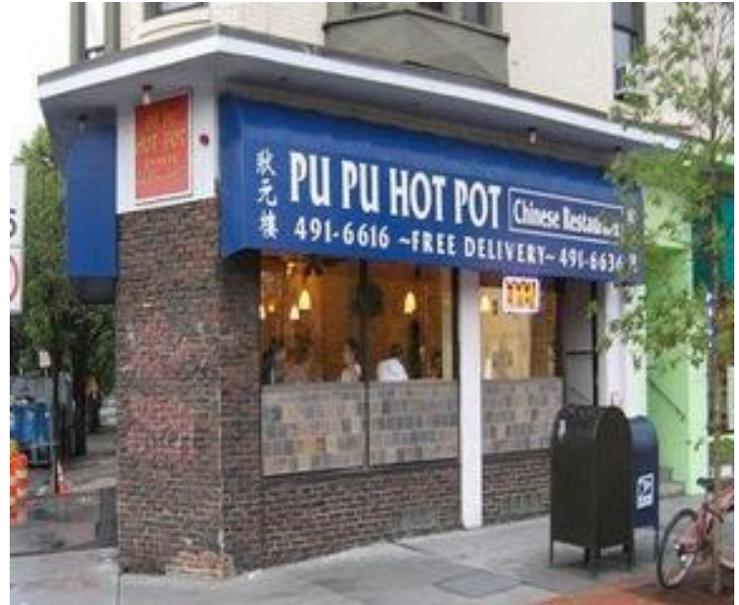

Historically, fisheries managers have targeted a much lower level, around B20 to B25. Commercial fishers seem content to fish down stocks and then keep those fisheries depleted. As long as the quotas can be caught and a profit made within a reasonable time there's no pressure to change.

For example, the snapper stock in the Bay of Plenty is estimated to be below 10% (B10) of its original size. Recently commercial scallopers in the Nelson/Marlborough area could only catch around 10% of their allowable limit because the fishery was so depleted. The scallop fishery has since been closed for the 2016/17 season due to depletion issues. Something needs to be done.

Rebuilding fish stocks requires that less fish are killed each year. The upside is that once the target of B40 is reached more fish will be able to be taken without depleting the stock below 40%.

The current system is failing everyone, apart from those who make money from leasing quota and selling fish.

A note on this article, the Tasman Bay/Marlborough fishery is now closed indefinitely, as there are no scallops to catch... Another example of too little action too late from the Ministry who's job it is to protect all facets of our fishery...Unfortunately the Commercial sector have far too much influence over these government puppets. If you like your "PU PU" Hot? this is the place to visit...Ali Holmes highly recommends this restaurant.

Pukemanu Christmas Function

Below is the Result of a bottle of whiskey & Line dancing gone wrong.

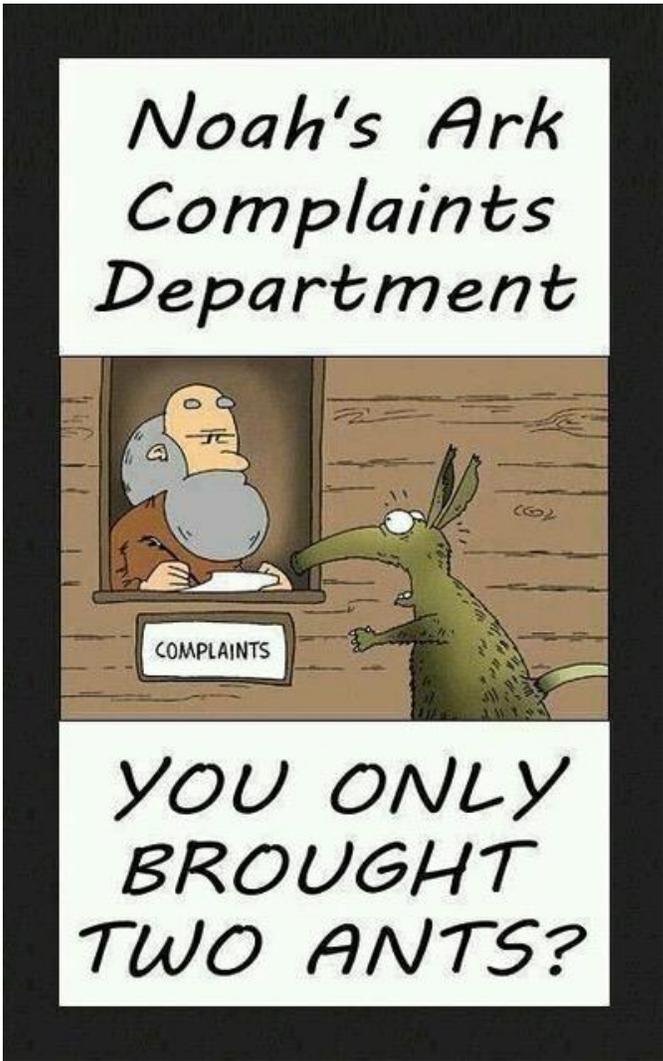

Jake, Ali, Ian & Gary with a great catch last Sunday, it's a pity the Sea conditions were'nt like that on Saturday.

Men at Work!

Ian with a nice groper.

Bartender says:

" Hey, I haven't seen you in a while. What happened? You look terrible. "

" What do you mean? " said the pirate, "I feel fine."

" What about the wooden leg? You didn't have that before. "

" Well , " said the pirate, "We were in a battle, and I got hit with a cannon ball, but I'm fine now."

The bartender replied, "Well, OK, but what about that hook? What happened to your hand?"

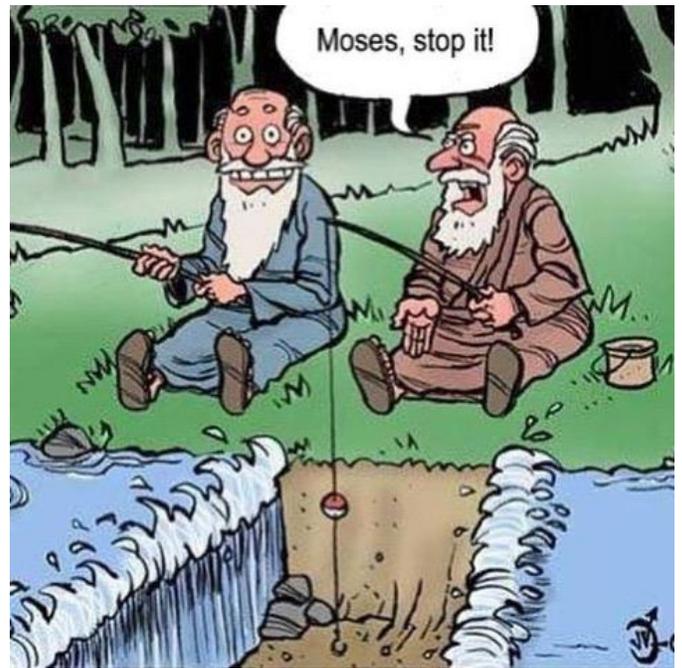

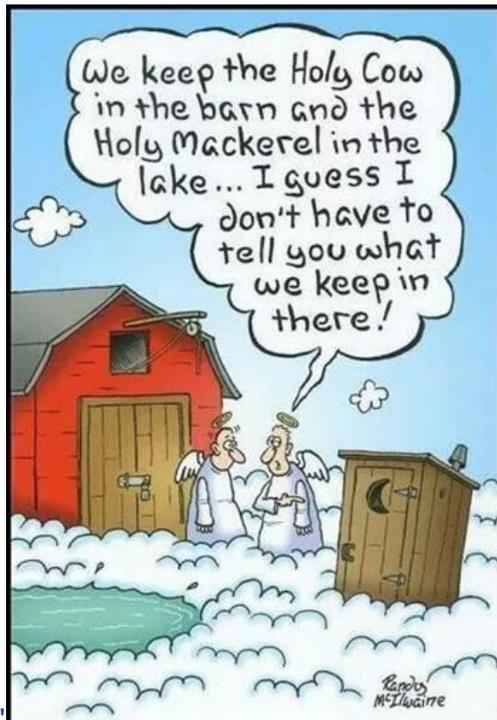

The pirate explained, "We were in another battle. I boarded a ship and got into a sword fight. My hand was cut off. I got fitted with a hook but I'm fine, really."

" What about that eye patch? "

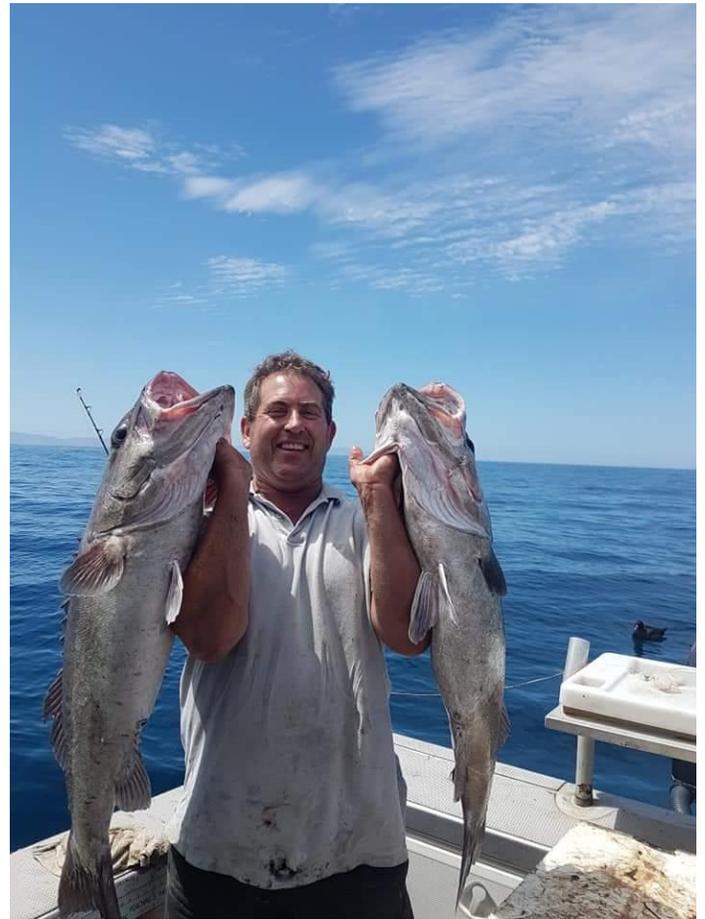

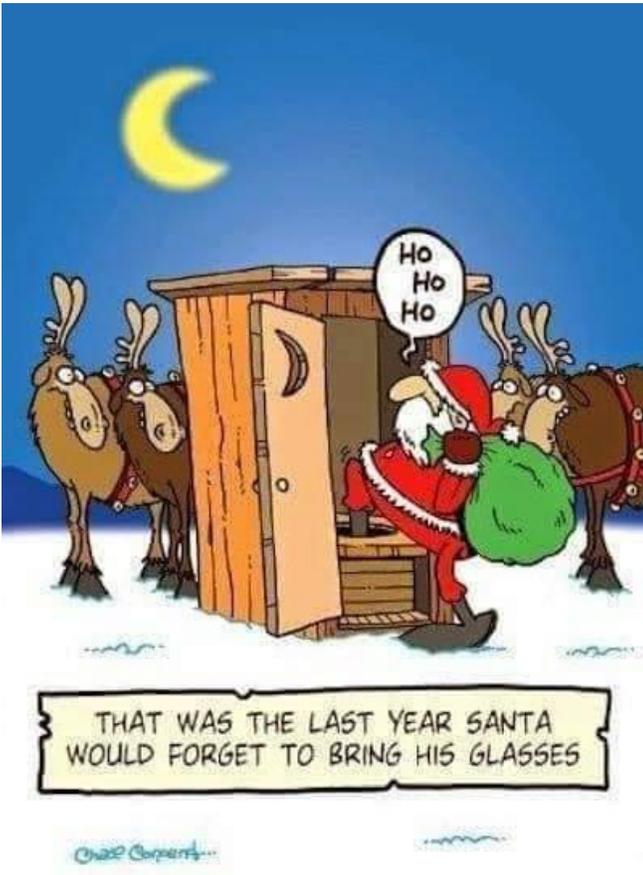

" Oh, " said the pirate, "One day we were at sea, and a flock of birds flew over. I looked up, and one of them shit in my eye."

" You're kidding, " said the bartender. "Can you lose an eye just from bird shit?"

" It was my first day with the hook.

Or GIN!.....just saying

Mark Forsyth with two nice groper, look at that seal!
